Hunter, a writer/stylist who specializes in design, provides a look at contemporary Southwest style, which goes beyond the pastel Native American design previously popular to include a mixture of Spanish, Mexican, and cowboy influences, and shows how the look has been incorporated into home decor. First an overview is given of the region and the traditional architectural styles and details that comprise the Southwest style. Then homes in Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, and Utah are depicted that exemplify each region's style from mountain to desert. Recommended for large interior design collections and where there is an interest. Copyright 2001 Reed Business Information, Inc.

Hunter is the founder of Healthy Home Designs and serves on the advisory board of Green Home, Inc.

This book is exactly what I wanted to help me design our home. It beautifully illustrates the varying elements of Southwestern design. Though I may not like every element, it is helpful to know what fits with a Southwestern look even though it may not be stereotypically Southwestern (see "Blue Lake Ranch" beginning on page 115). I also like that the book highlights regional influences: West Texas, Four Corners, New Mexico, and Arizona. This is a very good reference book that I will add to my collection.

Beautiful book!* Exactly what I wanted!
