Gr. 4-7. From the Smart about History series, this book is similar to other recent titles that quickly delineate the presidents with cartoon-style illustrations and a few fast, fun facts. However, this also presents a paragraph or so of solid information along with the fluff. Students will learn, for example, that Jimmy Carter was humble, honest, and down-to-earth--just what the country needed after Watergate. They will also find out about the taking of the hostages in Iran and that Carter negotiated a treaty between the Egyptians and the Israelis. Each president also gets a few lines about his life before the presidency. All in all, there's a surprising amount of information offered in a kid-friendly style. The artwork is better than average, and although it's played for fun, it's not disrespectful. Different fonts and a peppy layout add appeal. A bibliography, a map showing where the presidents were born, and spreads on White House kids, First Ladies, and more are appended. An easy way to interest kids in the presidency. Ilene CooperCopyright © American Library Association. All rights reserved

I bought this book for my twins who are in kindergarten. They are fascinated by the presidents & so I thought they would enjoy this book! Boy do they ever! They truly love it & always ask to read about a few different presidents each night. It's a great book for kids to learn! Very cute!

My son read the whole book to himself in about 2 or 3 sittings. He really liked it. I thought some of the facts that were included or omitted were a bit surprising, but I imagine it is hard to put together a book like this that will seem impartial to all adults.

We LOVE this book!!! My 6-year-old is a history buff, and this book (and the musical Hamilton) is part of the reason why! Fun, kid-friendly facts about each of the presidents and their time in office. Highly recommended!!!

Great for home study

My son loves it (4 year old). The only caveat, I added some real pictures of the presidents and glued them on top of the cartoons that are showed in the book. I also learned very interesting things about the presidents.

Received the product in two days, and on a Sunday to boot. Thank you .About the book, my 8 year old is enjoying right now. It is easy for him to understand the little facts associated with each president. At 8 years old he would not understand important facts like Watergate, Iraqi war, etc. He is however remembering the presidents by facts such as 'which president loved peanuts.'Good choice for elementary students, highly recommend the purchase.

I love this book, I am 83 yrs old, and was very surprised to learn, A woman, Victoria Woodhull, ran for President in 1872, but Ulysses S. Grant won that year..It is a neat book to keep close and use it to surprise someone that is really very smart, with something they never heard before.

My five year old son is really into learning about the Presidents right now. I can read this to him and the graphics and interesting facts hold his attention well.
